Parents requesting good student discount paperwork should get the form from their insurance company. The Counselor's Office does not have those forms. The Counselor can provide a copy of the report card when necessary.

Good Student Car Insurance Discounts

Younger drivers often face paying higher car insurance premiums than more experienced drivers because they are more prone to accidents and, as such, statistically present a higher risk to their insurance companies.

Fortunately, if you are a young driver (or the parent of a young driver), you do have options to offset these costs. Good student discounts can be a great way to save money on car insurance coverage for drivers in their teens or early twenties.

What Is a Good Student Discount?

A good student discount is exactly what it sounds like; it rewards students financially for doing well in school.

Because statistics show that students who get good grades are less likely to get into a car accident, car insurance companies see them as lower risk and, in turn, offer savings on their rates.

Some insurance companies may even continue the discount for a finite period (e.g., 1 year) after the student finishes school.

Exactly how much or if any gets taken off the student's car insurance premium will vary among companies, so it's a good idea to compare several auto insurance providers to see who offers the most substantial savings.
